For the things you love.
And for everyone that you

A modern interior scene with a minimalist aesthetic. A woman is reclining in a green patterned armchair, her legs crossed and feet resting on a large black floor lamp. To her right, a child is sitting on a white sofa with a bold black geometric pattern, their legs raised and feet resting on the lamp. In the foreground, another person is lying on the floor, their legs extended. A white spherical pendant light hangs from the ceiling. The background features a dark wall with a large white square and a black square. The floor is light-colored and polished.

Often, it's the smallest moments that matter the most. Like being lazy on the sofa, legs crossed, talking about everything and nothing. Or finding the time to be together, doing the most ordinary everyday things. Don't be afraid to bend the rules to create a home that works for you.

You can make a difference without leaving your home, just by living more sustainably. It's all those small things that are part of daily life that can save you time and money – like using less energy and water, or reducing waste. At IKEA, you'll find smart, easy and beautiful ways to help you create a more sustainable life at home. Get to know more about sustainability at IKEA.com.au/peopleandplanet

By 2016, we'll switch all the lamps and light bulbs we sell to LED. LED uses 85% less energy and lasts 20 times longer than traditional bulbs.

All taps from IKEA have a water-saving device.

We sort large amounts of waste for recycling. Today, 88% of waste in IKEA stores is sent for recycling or used for energy production. And our goal is to reach 100%.

Relaxing

A home is really the place to relax and recharge. And if your home lets you feel just as relaxed when it's filled with friends, kids, pets and millions of things, then you know that it really works. That's why rooms with built-in flexibility and sofas with changeable covers are a good idea. You can create room for play, or yoga, or other things at home that make you feel relaxed.

The idea came from our customers

They understood it right away – that most businesses are a lot like home. Take a hotel for instance. The needs are the same; sitting comfortably, having somewhere to meet up and relax after a busy day and a calm place to sleep. And we can only agree – everyday furniture at affordable prices is a great idea for companies too.

Organising

The thing with organisation is that you know when it works and when it doesn't. When time and space are being pressured, it's good organisation that will come to the rescue. Because if you don't have to search the home twice looking for something, you might save both time and frustration. Let good storage, boxes, hooks and shoe cabinets do the job for you. It works.

Children's IKEA

Rounded corners on furniture aren't merely design elements. And no sharp edges and zero tolerance on chemicals aren't about rules and regulations. They're about allowing for play to go its own way. We believe children are the most important people in the world and that children of all ages need good things to play with, but not necessarily lots of toys. That's why we built play into the design. And safety too. So that furniture and things can be fun and safe to play with.

Eating

It doesn't matter what you eat or where, it's about sitting down for something more than just a meal. It's about meeting and eating and having fun, which is so much easier if everyone is sitting comfortably.

And that's why we have high chairs for children, padded seats for those long, indulgent meals, and tables that are extendable to give more room for more friends. It simply makes eating an everyday pleasure.

"Natural materials give a nice feeling in any home. We are constantly developing new ways to treat wood surfaces that will bring out the natural beauty of the wood and make it durable to withstand scratches, coffee, heat, etc. It's not enough that the surface is durable and looks nice. It needs to feel nice too."

Refugee children need a place to call home, too

Since 2010, the IKEA Foundation has been working with the UN Refugee Agency, UNHCR, to make sure refugee children and their families have a safe place to call home.

Many of the shelters used in camps today have a lifespan of only six months, even though refugee families can remain in camps for many years – and in some cases, a lifetime. The equation doesn't add up. But thanks to the hard work of UNHCR, and the knowledge and expertise of IKEA, good things are happening.

IKEA Foundation has funded the development and construction of new, improved shelters that last years instead of months. And IKEA co-workers have been sharing knowledge with UNHCR on how to construct, pack and ship refugee tents more efficiently and effectively. We will continue to work together so that every refugee child has a safe place to call home.

Products for life at home

When a product solves a real need, it's a sign of true beauty. That's why we start designing by thinking of all the big and small things that take place in a home.

Some products can be adapted to changes in life, like our storage systems. Others do only one thing, but do it really well – like a good reading light. But they all make life easier in different ways.

By doing things differently, we create better solutions and lower prices for you, every day.

Great artists need great art supplies

When designers Camilla Tubertini and Sarah Fager were asked to develop a new range for the smallest (but greatest) artists, they started by watching children be creative. That inspired them to create better art supplies: watercolours with extra pigment, pens that don't dry out (even if the cap is left off), and paint brushes sized for children's hands. The entire MÅLA range is safe even if children happen to taste it. However, it's not something we recommend.

" When developing MÅLA we started by visiting day care centres that work with children's creativity. This gave us insights into how children use art supplies and how our range could improve. Like paint with lots of pigment that is easy to get on the brush, and pens that won't get dry even if you forget to put the cap on. "

Maria Thörn, Range Manager

Play is a serious matter, so we're sending our best

With help from our friends at UNICEF, we're sending teams of toys out into the world to do one of the toughest and most important jobs: helping children living through emergencies.

Eight IKEA products, including these two hand puppets and other playtime essentials, are being packed into UNICEF's Early Childhood Development Kit. These IKEA products, along with the other contents of the kit, will help children develop their critical thinking, speaking and interaction skills during tough times. We're taking play seriously because we know how important it is – that's why we're sending the best for the job.

With babies, everything is always developing. That's why we make baby toys with contrasting colors that are easy to grab.

Sleep safely

No parent should need to pay high prices for high safety. That's why we put all our cots through tough tests to meet the world's strictest standards. We also make sure that the space between the bars is safe for the child, so your baby won't get stuck between them. And all cots are impact-tested so your baby can safely wiggle and jiggle inside.

"I love my job because the distance to the customer is so close, and I can see the effect of what I do almost instantaneously. I can see if it's making a difference for the customer, or if it changes their perception of the shopping experience. At the end of the day, I know I've done a good job if the customer feels a difference."

Shop together

The IKEA store is a place where the whole family is welcome.

For the youngest family members, there are always lots of fun things going on. And when you need to re-energise or have a break, you're welcome in the restaurant.

Enjoy a quick snack, a full-course meal, or just a cup of coffee.

Free parking

Many times our stores are located outside big cities. And you have several ways of getting there. If you choose to travel by car, there's always free parking at every store. See your local IKEA store for details.

Explore

At the IKEA store you're free to explore the different room sets and test out all the furniture. Take a seat, open drawers, have a chat. Spend as much time as you like. Honestly, we don't mind. And our ideas are also up for grabs. If you find ones you like, take them home with you. They're free.

We are the yellow shirts

In the stores you'll see lots of yellow shirts – that's us, the people who work at IKEA. And we are there for you. We're ready to guide you through your buying decisions and happy to answer your question. But most of what you do in the store you can do on your own – that's part of the IKEA concept. That way both we, and you, save time and money, so we can offer great home furnishing solutions at an affordable price.

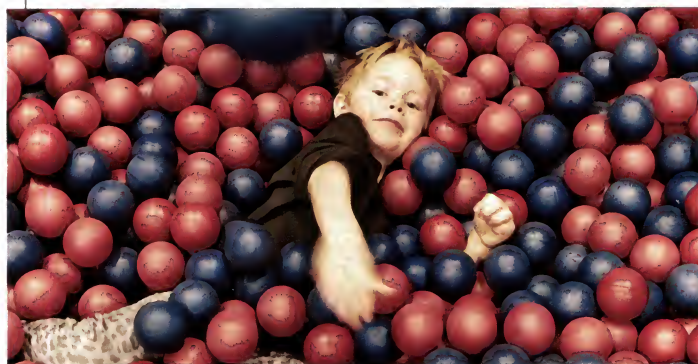

More IKEA benefits

IKEA FAMILY rewards all families with great offers and news. Join our family today, and get substantial member discounts. There's also a special range, and the hot drinks are free for members in the IKEA Restaurants from Monday to Friday. Go to IKEA.com.au/FAMILY and sign up for a free membership.

Play away at Småland

Småland is our free supervised play area. A place where you can leave the kids while you're exploring the store – much appreciated by all family members. While you get inspiration for new furniture solutions, your kids will have a fun time with other kids, playing in the ball pit, watching a movie, colouring pictures, or playing with toys. See your local IKEA store for details.

When parents enjoy a meal in our restaurants, we feed the youngest family members from our organic baby range – for free. We think it's an offer that keeps everyone happy.

You're part of IKEA

The IKEA philosophy is built on the belief of providing great quality furniture with great looking design at an affordable price. It's thanks to you that we have been able to do it so far. You're playing a big part. As you will see below, IKEA wouldn't be IKEA without you.

Finding the best way to produce

Early in the design process, we decide the price. We simply decide how much we think something should cost, so as many as possible can afford it. Then we start looking for the right materials and the smartest ways to produce a product. And make it with the best qualities in the most environmentally friendly way we can. It's a challenge we give ourselves every time. And if we're not able to do it the first time, we start all over.

Transportation without air

We hate to transport air. That's why we avoid doing it. And it's been the same since the beginning of our history. Our flat-packs make it possible to transport products at a low cost with a small impact on the environment. Plus, your new sofa, chair or table becomes so much easier to bring home.

Self-serve

At the end of each store is where you'll find the self-serve area. That's where you're becoming a part of IKEA. By picking your flat-packed items yourself, it's possible for us to keep the price down. Another much-appreciated benefit of self-serve is that you're able to bring your new purchases home the very same day.

Assembly

After getting your furniture home, it's time for assembly. And that's when everything comes together. Literally. Not only the actual furniture, but also the philosophy of IKEA. We do our part, and you do yours – and together we make it possible to offer great quality products at a low price.

Guarantees

General conditions for all guarantees

The benefits provided by the guarantees on the following pages are in addition to other rights and remedies available to the consumer under Australian Consumer Law.

What is guaranteed?

The extent of the guarantee given for each product is described alongside each product.

Duration of guarantee

Each guarantee lasts for the number of years stated against each product, starting from the date of purchase.

What will IKEA do to correct the problem?

IKEA will examine the product and decide if it's covered under this guarantee. IKEA will then, at its choice, either repair the defective product or replace it with the same or a comparable product. In these cases, IKEA will be responsible for the costs of repairs, spare parts, labour and travel for repair staff that IKEA incurs, provided that the product is accessible for repair without IKEA incurring additional expenditure to gain access. This will not apply in cases where repair work has not been authorised by IKEA. Any defective parts removed in the course of repair works will become the property of IKEA. If the item is no longer sold by IKEA, IKEA will provide an appropriate replacement. IKEA will decide, at its discretion, what will constitute an appropriate replacement.

Conditions for the guarantees

The guarantees are valid from the date of purchase at IKEA. The original purchase receipt is required as proof of purchase.

Exclusions

The guarantees do not apply to products that have been stored or assembled incorrectly, used inappropriately, abused, misused, altered, or cleaned with wrong cleaning methods or wrong cleaning products. The guarantees do not cover normal wear and tear, cuts or scratches, or damage caused by impacts or accidents. The guarantees do not apply if products have been placed outdoors or in a humid environment, or have been used for non-domestic purposes (unless otherwise stated). The guarantees do not cover consequential or incidental damages. The guarantees are to the benefit of the original purchaser of the product. They are not transferable. For details see the guarantee conditions and description for every product.

Care instructions

To be able to rely on this guarantee you need to follow the specific care instructions for every product. You will find all care instructions at your local IKEA store and on IKEA.com.au

General legal rights

Our goods come with guarantees that cannot be excluded under the Australian Consumer Law. You are entitled to a replacement or refund for a major failure and for compensation for any other reasonably foreseeable loss or damage. You are also entitled to have the goods repaired or replaced if the goods fail to be of acceptable quality and the failure does not amount to a major failure. The benefits under our guarantee are in addition to other rights and remedies under law in relation to the goods.

IKEA proudly presents lax

Up until now, you have probably only associated IKEA with well-designed, functional home furnishings at an affordable price.

But from now on, we'll also be known for lax – which means salmon in Swedish. This tasty and healthy fish is one of many new dishes on our restaurant menu. And there's a good reason for that.

MARINATED SALMON PLATE

Marinated salmon served with mixed salad leaves, mustard and dill sauce and a lemon wedge.

$6.99

Our Swedish Food Market offers a wide selection of traditional favourites, such as meatballs, as well as salmon lasagne and other updated Swedish classics. Don't forget to pick up the recipe cards, to inspire you to cook and enjoy these dishes at home.

A taste of Scandinavia

Lax has, from the middle ages and forward, played an important role in Swedish and Scandinavian food culture. We like lax so much that we enjoy it as an everyday food – and as a holiday treat for Christmas and Midsommar.

“IKEA recently participated in a WWF-initiated dialogue that led to the development of a new standard for sustainable salmon farming, which we will apply to all the salmon we sell and serve. After all, we need to do our part to ensure that there’s plenty of fish left in the sea in the future.”
Olivia Ross, Head of Sustainability Communications

Eating lax is good for you

Today, lax is widely popular in homes and restaurants all over the world. And that’s not only because of the taste. Lax is classified as an oily fish, and is considered to be healthy due to its high protein and omega-3 fatty acid content – important for brain function. Lax also has lots of vitamin D, necessary for strong bones and muscles.

Healthy and happy fish

We believe that healthy and happy fish make healthy and happy guests in our restaurants and Swedish Food Markets. That’s why IKEA has participated in the multi-stakeholder dialogue initiated and led by WWF which has developed criteria and a standard for sustainable salmon farming. IKEA has committed to only source salmon from ASC-certified (Aquaculture Stewardship Council) farms by August 2015 at the latest.

A restaurant experience at an affordable price

Like everything we do, we believe that as many people as possible should be able to afford a good meal out. At IKEA, the whole family can have a nice restaurant experience, and share a tasty meal at an affordable price. Why not try one of our lax dishes the next time you visit our restaurant.

"The IKEA culture is within every one of us. And as co-workers we create, move and develop the culture everyday. The possibilities are endless if you are willing to learn, adapt and grow together."

Danell McDowell, Communication Manager, Trading

IKEA is always asking 'why' – are you?

At IKEA, 'why' is a keyword. It is the 'why' that leads us to new ways of thinking and doing. It's the 'why' that makes IKEA continually develop and improve our design, manufacturing, packaging and shipping, as well as our store experience. It's not just about questioning the old and established; it's asking how IKEA can become a better company for more people all over the world – both for our customers and our co-workers. So if you're asking yourself 'Why work at IKEA?' you're off to a good start.

You can always be yourself, everyone has a voice and it's a company that encourages open dialogue. IKEA wants co-workers that can help build on that culture – straight-forward and down-to-earth people with a willingness to learn."

"We're led by curiosity. It takes us around the world, to factory floors where we collaborate with skilled local craftspeople to create solutions for everyday problems. TRENDIG is an example of where we renewed typical Scandinavian design by combining what's traditionally Swedish with typical Chinese form."
